THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

Sometime in 1950, [] received a request for payment for the building of a new airfield in Mierzecice. This particular request had a small special stamp applied to it (a circular stamp, about the size of a dime, with a capital "S" in the center). When [] received requests with this special stamp, it was [] duty to approve them without question, because this stamp applied to military projects. There were many requests in 1950, 1951, and 1952 concerning the building of this airfield in Mierzecice. Since these requests had the special stamp applied to them, [] always applied his stamp of approval without question and had never paid any attention to the type of construction the money was used for, or the amounts of money involved.
